

Regulations for the Establishment of the Environmental Protection and Occupational Safety and Health Committee of the School of Forestry and Resource Conservation, College of Bioresources and Agriculture, National Taiwan University

Article 1

To promote environmental protection and occupational safety and health, the School of Forestry and Resource Conservation, College of Bioresources and Agriculture, National Taiwan University (hereinafter referred to as "the Department") establishes the "Environmental Protection and Occupational Safety and Health Committee of the School of Forestry and Resource Conservation, College of Bioresources and Agriculture, National Taiwan University" (hereinafter referred to as "Committee") in accordance with relevant laws and regulations on environmental protection and occupational safety and health.

Article 2

The Committee shall consist of three members. The Department Chair shall serve as an ex officio member and convener. Two additional faculty members shall be elected from within the Department, each serving a two-year term based on the academic year system, with reappointment permitted.

One elected member shall also serve as the department's representative at the college level of the environmental protection and occupational safety and health committee.

Article 3

The duties of the Committee are as follows:

- (1) Inspecting the structural safety of department buildings and the surrounding environment.
- (2) Inspecting and advising on the safety of laboratory instruments and equipment within the Department.
- (3) Identifying and advising on improving pollution sources within the Department.
- (4) Addressing other safety and health matters related to the Department.

Article 4

Each faculty member of the Department must assign a research assistant or student to assist in managing environmental safety and health affairs within their respective laboratories and research areas, and to be available for inspection at any time.

Article 5

The Committee shall convene at least once per semester.

Article 6

These Regulations shall take effect upon approval by the Departmental Affairs Meeting and subsequent confirmation by the college and university. The same procedure shall apply to any amendments.
